DEER DANCE SONGS OF SAN JUAN PUEBLO

The San Juan Deer Dance, called paa-share in Tewa, is performed each year in mid February. It begins in the late afternoon on the eve of the dance. With the exception of the Ange'in, all of the songs are very old and sung every year. The Ange'in in this recording was newly composed for the deer dance in 1979 by Cipriano Garcia. The four early morning songs are unique in that fourteen different animals are mentioned in the Apache language during each song. For this recording the first seven are sung in the first and third songs, with the second seven being sung in the second and fourth songs. There are four daytime songs. The first three were shortened to three parts. The fourth was sung with all five sections. The running away song is also sung with all five sections. We are very happy to present these beautiful deer dance songs of San Juan Pueblo.

LIVING THROUGH HOPI SONGS

In July 2007, Ferrell Secakuku, passed away at the age of 69. For the many that knew him, he was among the wisest, humblest, and hardest working people known. He knew that with the passing of his generation, more and more of Hopi knowledge and tradition would be lost. During the last months of his life, he composed seven songs for the Hopi people. Through these songs he wished to send a message to Hopi children to live a good Hopi life, learn the Hopi language, be proud of who you are. This CD is one of Ferrell's final works, the third in a series of songs that he composed.

ROUND DANCE SONGS OF THE TAOS PUEBLO

Round dance is a social dance which has long been popular among many Plains tribes as well as at Taos Pueblo. It has also become popular among numerous intertribal clubs in cities where many Indians have relocated. Taos Pueblo is unique in that for more than a century its singers and composers have been successfully performing and composing in this Plains musical form in addition to their own Pueblo forms. Today Taos is widely recognized as a center for excellent round dance singing and composition. In these recordings, the goal was to present Taos round dance singing as it would be sung at an actual dance. Reissued on CD.

- VOLUME 1

16 Taos round dance songs sung by John C. Gomez, Orlando Lujan, Benny Mondragon, Ruben Romero, and Louis Sandoval. Recorded at Taos Pueblo, New Mexico, November 12, 1966.

ALPH SECAKUKU

Alph Secakuku is a composer and artist from the Hopi Tribe in northern Arizona. He is also a noted lecturer and author of various topics concerning the Hopi. Alph also performs in concert with Native American flute player John Hulling.

- SONGS OF THE FOURTH WORLD

In one of the most remote areas of northern Arizona lies the land of the Hopi. These lands are relatively barren and very dry, having an annual rainfall of only five to seven inches. Even so, the Hopi, known as the "Peaceful People" are very grateful to their supreme deity for entrusting this sacred earth to them. Being assigned as caretakers of Mother Earth, the Hopi regard these high desert mesas to be the "Spiritual Center of the Universe"... also known as the Fourth World. These songs which have never been recorded, provide the listener with an introduction to the traditional musical world of the Hopi. Liner provides background information.
RF 1001 (Out of Print.)

- RAIN SONGS - HOPI KATSINA PRAYERS FOR LIFE

Raised in a Hopi village in the Second Mesa in Arizona, Alph is of the Snake Clan and initiated into the religious societies of the Katsina. The Katsina are powerful and benevolent spirit beings whose songs, language, chants and dancing represent messages to benefit and sustain life in this Fourth World. RAIN SONGS are literally songs that are prayers for basic things such as moisture, long and healthy life, plentiful harvests and happiness and pleasantness of life in this world. Nine songs including Corn Dancers, Sprout Song, Blessing Song and Unity Song.

TEACHING THROUGH HOPI SONGS

- BY ANITA POLEAHLA AND FERRELL SECKUKU

Anita Poleahla and Ferrell Secakuku provide yet another valuable learning source for the Hopi language. Teaching Through Hopi Songs, their second collection, is an expression of the Hopi culture in songs. This CD and booklet help to teach not only the language, but valuable lessons as well. The songs presented here focus on the simple philosophical teachings of the Hopi. It is a mixture of songs that include planting, the Hopi buffalo dance, premeditation for the summer months, and self-evaluation. Hopi life is very complex, but simple. The language challenge is huge. Anita and Ferrell encourage all Hopi, especially the children, to use this life resource to learn the Hopi sacred language. PS 02 CD with booklet $17.98

CLARK TENAKHONGVA
